

Brunello di Montalcino

Riserva Poggio al Vento 2006

This is one of the greatest Poggio al Vento wines ever made in my opinion. A late bud burst and rainy spring prepared a long growing season that, matched with mild and dry summer conditions, produced great grapes come harvest. With 31.5g/l of dry extract this Brunello is well representative of the vintage and the style of the 2000s, without losing any grace. Restrained cherry and raspberry are enhanced by clay minerality, fresh leather and tar. Black cherry and prune flavors are finely tuned with velvety, young tannins alongside almost zesty acidity and full body. A very classic Montalcino which packs a punch. One to hold on to in the cellar for a few years. A. Fiorelli May 25-2021
